

RESPONSIBILITY FOR PROTECTING THE COMMUNITY

Animals Law Sections 44 40 & 46

44. A dog shall be regarded as being dangerously out of control on any occasion on which there are grounds for reasonable apprehension that it will injure any person or another domestic animal, whether or not it does so,not include references to any case in which the dog is being used for lawful purposes by a constable, a public officer or a security guard in uniform while carrying out his duties.

40. . If a dog is dangerously out of control in a public public (I notice that some of the numbered sections are black, and some are blue. I suggest we make them all blue for consistency) place, the owner and, if different, the person for the time being in charge of the dog, commits an offense.

46. A person who suffers any ferocious dog to be at large or who sets on or urges any dog to attack, worry or put in fear any person or domestic or protected animal commits an offence.....

WHAT TO DO IN THE EVENT OF A DOG ATTACK:

If you are the dog owner:

- Accept responsibility - you are responsible for any cost related to your animal causing injury to any person outside your property, as well as any damage to any property, not being your own property.
- Share your contact information with the victim of your dog attack.
- Co-operated with the police and DOA officers and provide whatever information they may ask of you.
- Take steps to ensure that this issue does not repeat itself.

If you are attacked:

- Call the police or 9-1-1 and make a formal complaint.
- If you were bitten, ensure that you see a doctor for treatment. Animal bites are easily infected.
- Provide a statement to the police stating date, time, location, description of animal, description of injury, with pictures if possible. Any hospital or medical records attesting to the injury are also useful.
- Try to calmly and rationally establish dialogue with the owner of the animal, if known. If you cannot civilly come to a decision about liability, then a police investigation will be launched into the matter and both parties will be required to appear in court.

When not being exercised on a lead, dogs should be kept confined to the owner's property, either by:
A fenced property - ensure that your fence is high and secure enough so that the animal cannot escape unto the roadway.
